Broadcasting's
decision for their stations to air an anti-Kerry
documentary days
before the election
is clearly inappropriate. If they air an
anti-Kerry piece,
they should also air
an anti-Bush piece.
Or better yet, they should air positive
pieces about all of the candidates- or
nothing at all.
Using the public
airways free of charge should impose
a substantial burden
of acting in the public interest; any question of acting
otherwise should be investigated most vigorously.
